The inter-sessional climate change conference for the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change will be held in Bonn, Germany from 8th May to 18th May 2017. Uppsala University has status as observer organization and will be sending a delegation to the conference. We are now calling upon engaged and motivated students in Uppsala to apply to join the delegation as Uppsala University's representatives at the negotiations. This delegation is a part of Uppsala University's ongoing involvement in the UN level climate negotiations, building on the Zennström climate change professorship and Uppsala University's long tradition of student-leadership and active student participation.

Take advantage of this unique opportunity to take part in a process that is of paramount importance and build on the work of previous delegations's involvement in these UN negotiations. This will also be a chance to prepare for COP 23 which will take place in November 2017 in Bonn.

Apply by providing a brief personal statement (no more than 2 pages) that addresses the following questions:

- Who are you? Tell us about yourself and your background.
- What are your intellectual and academic interests at the moment?
- Are you involved in any activities/initiatives that have a connection to climate change issues?
- Why do you want to go to the intersessional meeting in Bonn?
- How does participating in the intersessional fit in with your professional interests and trajectory in life?
- How would you propose to collaboratively prepare, connect and also feed-back with others at Uppsala University and in Uppsala that are interested in climate change and the negotiations, but not able not able to join the delegation?

Please also include the following information in your application: complete name, date of birth, Swedish permanent or temporary personal number, nationality, passport number and country of issue, dates which you are able to attend the conference, email address. Send your personal statement, along with your transcript of records (showing which courses you have been enrolled in and passed) to: jesse.schrage@csduppsala.uu.se

We would also like to kindly invite you to participatory information session where we will discuss and hopefully be able to answer any questions you may have about the application process and the experience of taking part in a delegation to a UN climate negotiation. This will take place on Tuesday 14th March at 18.15 at CEMUS library, Geocentrum, Villavägen 16, 752 36 Uppsala. This will also be an opportunity to meet other students engaged in climate change and linking the global UN meetings to the regional and local context in Uppsala.

In order to be considered to join the delegation as a student, you will need to be enrolled at Uppsala University. In forming our delegation, we are looking to create a highly motivated, interdisciplinary team of students. Note that a selection to join the delegation does not entail funding for travel, food or housing. If you are selected and accept, you will need to commit to:

- participating in weekly preparatory meetings during the spring semester leading up to the inter-sessional in Bonn with the rest of the student delegation;
- actively participating in at least one of the two weeks of the intersessional (8-12 May and/or 15-18 May);
- being involved in organizing and contributing to events in Uppsala before, during and after the event.
